

TRAILS

SUPERSTITION WILDERNESS

There is a network of some 170 miles of “system” trails serving the Superstition Wilderness Area and contiguous areas. Their condition varies from satisfactory to very poor. All trails are closed to motor vehicles and mechanical transport such as bikes.

Use a great deal of caution when traveling on backcountry trails such as this one and be aware of the risks you assume.

A few brief comments are in order about the following trail:

Woodbury Trail 114: 2 miles long. The east portion is an old mining road. The west portion provides access to Fraser Canyon and the Coffee Flat Trail 108. Elevation: 3,120 - 3,850 feet. Termini: Trail 108, and Forest Road 172A.
